ings, Montana, cowboy, accus of the slaying of Charles Flink 39 year old Bay St. Louis Novel ty Shop Operator, will be tried for the second time in Bay Louis, with proceedings starting Monday, Sept. 17.

Morris, charged with murder for the alleged slaying of Flink on the night of November 22 1955, at the home of the victim on Highway 90, has been confin ed in Harrison County jail, at Gulfport, since March of this year when a jury failed to reach verdict and a mistrial was declared by Judge Leslie B. Grant. Morris was released into the custody of two Hancock County Sheriff's deputies James Necaise and August Scafide, from Gulfport Monday morning, and was brought to Bay St. Louis for the setting of the second trial date.

The defendant was indicted on March 13, 1956, by a Hancock County Grand Jury for the alleged murder of Flink. He is a ruggedly, handsome man, father of a three year old son. At the time of the murder he was living in Ocean Springs, where he said he was hoping to obtain work at the Dude Ranch. He had moved South from his Montana home, accompanied by his son, several weeks preceding the fatal night. District Attorney Boyce Holleman, who had asked the death penalty in his prosecution of Morris at the first trial last March, said Morris will commute under armed guard from Gulfport each day of the trial boted he would again seek the maximum death penalty for Morloxi and Cornelius Ladner, Bay
